

How to Print SCRAM Systems Help & Support Articles

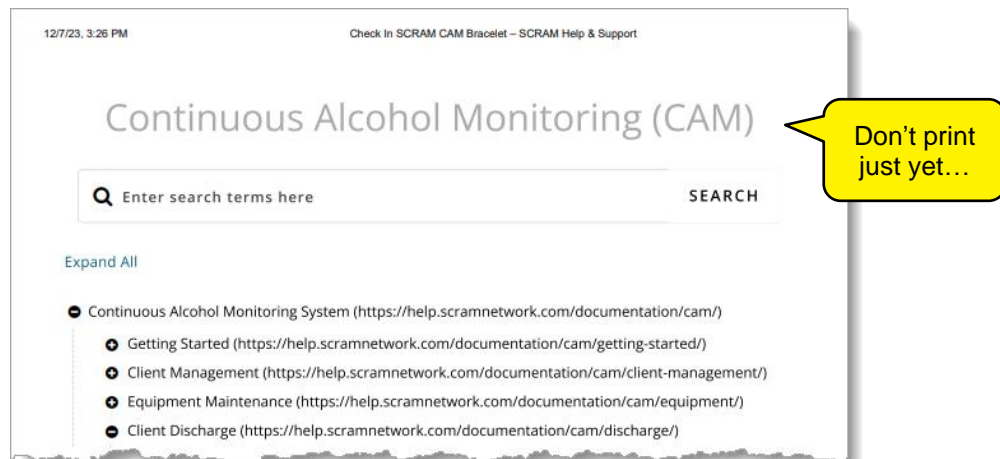

Start by browsing to or searching for the Help article you wish to print.

Once on the desired article, select the printer icon at the top of the page, just under the article title.

Your browser's Print dialog will open, however, the first time you attempt to print, the page will not format as intended. The search bar and all the page navigation links will appear at the top of the page. Not useful in print.

Therefore, you should immediately Cancel the request...

...and then immediately select the printer icon again.

Your browser's Print dialog will open again, but this time the page will be formatted correctly. The enormous page heading, the search bar, and the long list of page navigation links will be removed. The SCRAM Systems logo will appear at the top of the first page.

In the Print dialog, select where you would like the article to print (to a printer or saved as a PDF) ...

...and then select Print (or Save).

Notes:

- If the article is being saved as a PDF, you will be prompted to select a folder on your computer in which to save the file.
- Copyright information and disclaimers will print at the end of the article on the last page.
